SFE is the first and only TV station in the world to broadcast a 24/7 program of artist films, art video, photography, design, performances and music.

SFE transforms flat screens into modern paintings in motion and gives access to the avant garde of all new visual cultures of the 21 century at the digital crossover of art, TV and Internet.

SFE is broadcast on the cable in France and Germany and worldwide over the Internet. With more than 1000 artists from different origins, SFE was founded in Köln – Germany in 2001 by video-artist Marcus Kreiss, later joined by artist and curator Alec Crichton.

SFE realizes the dream of Nam June Paik, the great Korean video art pioneer, to use TV as an artform in opposition to average mass media programs

The SFE venue in Korea is a real return to the source and an homage to Nam June Paik.

Seoul will become the new hub for the creative scene in Asia with the opening of a platform giving the artists a visibility on the channel and delivering to the audience a new experience of the contemporary creativity.

« We collect glimpses of every day life, 'souvenirs from earth', to be used in a darker future by a couple of people that escaped our planet before it collapsed." This hypothesis may allow us to get a better view on the very simple things of our life, generating a global awareness for the grace and fragility of our life on planet Earth ».
